The House lauded the university and the IQAC for their achievements and persistent efforts towards quality enhancement. Then, with the consent of the Chairperson, the formal agenda pertaining to various metrics of criterion 3 was taken up for discussion:

1. To consider promoting teachers for research through seed money.

Director IQAC drew the attention of the House to the revised benchmarks related to seed money. The committee discussed various strategies to encourage research through seed money among faculty members. It was suggested that the faculty members be promoted to undertake innovative, integrated research projects to further enhance research endeavors particularly in the fields such as environment, sustainability and engineering.

Mr. Mukesh Singh expressed his willingness to help the university develop a framework for waste management within the University campus. As a result, it was decided to schedule a meeting with Mr. Singh to discuss the framework for waste management in detail.

It was decided in the meeting that the Director Research would convene a meeting in the coming week with teachers who have been allocated seed money for research projects to review the progress of the research projects and gather insights. Subsequently, the Director Research would submit a report to the IQAC detailing the status of these projects.

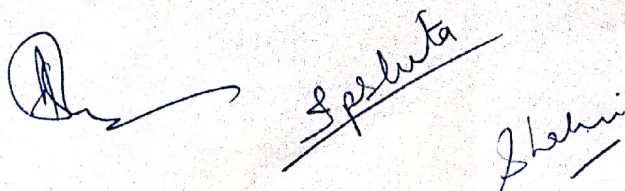

Action: Director Research/IQAC

2. To devise mechanism for increasing the number of Patents in the Institution

Director IQAC underscored the need to devise mechanism for increasing the number of Patents in the Institution in the light of revised benchmarks in the concerned metric and said that faculty from the disciplines such as Sciences, Engineering, Ayurveda, Pharmacy and Hotel Management must be encouraged to file patents in their respective fields of research. Dr Yogender Malik suggested to identify specific areas and the faculty with the potential for award of patent and they may be supported and encouraged to go for filing the patent. It was also decided that in order to encourage the faculty in this regard, patent filing fee may be paid by the university. Prof. Surender Mor suggested that further motivation in form of financial support for those faculty members who have been awarded a patent.

Action: Director Research/IQAC/ Concerned Faculty

3. To discuss strategies for revenue generation through consultancy

The agenda on revenue generation through consultancy was deliberated upon at length. The Hon'ble Vice Chancellor proposed exploring consultancy opportunities in the social sector as a potential avenue for revenue generation and it was decided to create a team comprising the following members:

1. Dean, Academic Affairs
2. Professor Ipshita Bansal, Department of Management
3. Dean, Faculty of Social Sciences
4. Chairperson, Department of Social Work
5. One representative from the Department of Ayurveda

The team would be tasked with investigating and identifying consultancy opportunities within the social sector.

Additionally, it was decided to meet with Professor Bhatt to pullout his expertise and insights into revenue generation strategies through consultancy.

Prof. Ipshita Bansal suggested providing consultancy services to nearby villages on various aspects, such as establishing e-chaupals. The Department of Social Work, in collaboration with specialized departments, could offer consultancy services tailored to the needs of the villagers.

Dr. Yogita Munjal emphasized upon tapping the resources such as National Medicinal Plants Board, Ministry of Ayushto increase consultancy through the faculty of Ayurveda.

Action: Director Research/IQAC

4. To promote research projects from Non-Government Organization

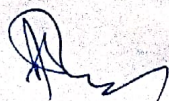

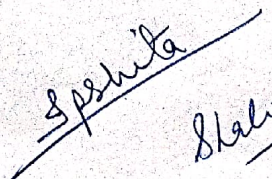

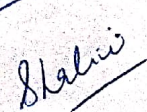

In order to give a further fillip to the number of research projects awarded to the faculty, special focus is required on projects from Non-Government Organizations as the same counts towards overall score during accreditation. In this regard, Mr. Mukesh Singh suggested tapping small corporate entities as a potential avenue for collaboration and support for research projects and promised to extend support to the university which was well received by the House.

Action: Director Research/IQAC
